WHEN THE HUNTERS BECOME THE HUNTED

How nine Houston men were assaulted and robbed in the ranchlands of Mexico

By DUDLEY ALTHAUS

HOUSTON CHRONICLE

Nov. 23, 2009, 7:13AM

ark Rand For the Chronicle

HERE AT RANCHO ACAZAR, NINE HOUSTON HUNTERS WERE ATTACKED BY MARAUDERS.

Resources;
THRILL OF THE HUNT

Who goes:

At least 17,000 hunt in Tamaulipas state each year.

The prey:

White-wing doves, quail, other fowl.

The camp:

400 lodges offer hunters' quarters.

The cost:

$500 to as much as $6,000 for multi-day excursions.

MEXICO CITY — Like generations of Texans, nine Houston hunters traveled each autumn into northeastern Mexico's wildlife-rich ranchlands for a few uninterrupted days of shooting game, far removed from the workday world.

But that ended abruptly last month after the men were rounded up, robbed and terrorized by well-armed marauders.

The nine were wrapping up an afternoon of white-wing dove hunting about 100 miles south of the Rio Grande when a dozen men, armed with assault rifles, roared into the grain field in pickup trucks. The businessmen, some as old as 76, were forced to kneel on a gravel road or lie spread-eagle in the dirt for more than an hour.

The gunmen drank from the Texans' booze supply, kicked several of their victims, and hit several with rifles and shovels, repeatedly threatening them and the Mexican men assisting the hunt. Before driving away, the brigands confiscated cash, shotguns, wedding rings, watches and cameras worth nearly $50,000, the hunters estimate.

U.S. sportsmen have long enjoyed northern Mexico's hunting and fishing, spawning an industry that sustains dozens of lodges and feeds the incomes of thousands of ranchers and villagers.

Tourism to Mexico has sharply declined amid the economic downturn as well as worries over the H1N1 flu epidemic and narcotics-related violence that has claimed some 14,000 lives in three years. Despite operating in what many consider to be gangster country, the hunting largely has been immune from trouble — until now.

"They were like a bunch of cowboys, Wild West guys," said Stephen Spencer, 72, a former Harris County constable and reserve sheriff who was in the Oct. 18 hunting party. "When a guy has a machine gun pointed at you, you do what they tell you to do."

Mexican and U.S. officials, as well as hunting promoters and lodge owners, say the assault near Villa de Méndez — a village about 110 miles south of the border at McAllen — is an isolated incident. But the case raises the specter of alarm for the more than 17,000 hunters, many if not most from Texas, who flock each autumn to areas under the sway of the Zeta gunmen of the Gulf Cartel, the organized crime syndicate based in Tamaulipas state.

“I think they wanted us gringos gone and not coming down there,” said Mark Rand, 50, owner of a commercial printing company in Houston, who has hunted in northeastern Mexico for 21 years and says he lost $14,000 worth of equipment in the robbery. “I’m not going back.”

A U.S. consulate spokesman in Monterrey acknowledged receipt of the hunters’ complaint about the robbery but said he couldn’t discuss details of the case. Neither the U.S. consulate nor the Tamaulipas state government have received any similar reports, the officials said.

“People are negative on Mexico already, and people getting robbed is not going to help,” said Dean Putegnat, who owns Rancho Caracol, a hunting lodge near Lake Vicente Guerrero in Tamaulipas.

A new problem

Putegnat, whose family has hunted in Tamaulipas for decades and owns several lodges in the state, said drug-smuggling gangs have never shown any interest in hunters.

Putegnat’s lodge Web site argues that reports and fears of Mexico’s violence are overblown. “This is the first time in my whole life something like this has happened.”

On the other hand, with narcotics smuggling under pressure by the Mexican government’s crack-down, cartel criminals and other gangs have diversified into kidnapping, extortion and other crimes in many communities.

The Houston men were hunting out of Rancho Acazar, a not-for-profit lodge that until recently hosted nearly 2,000 sportsmen a year. Founded in the late 1950s by partners from Texas, the lodge has closed indefinitely.

Business was off before the assault. Hunts were halved this year from the usual 18, and the number of hunters at each outing dropped by a third to fewer than 20.

Still, relations with the locals remained good. Hunters routinely passed out candy to children in Méndez and offered seasonal jobs to locals at the lodge and in the field.

“They usually don’t mess with Americans,” said Jeff Van Wart, 49, a Houston investment banker whose 76-year-old father, Don, has been organizing hunts as one of nine partners in Rancho Acazar since the early 1960s. “That’s what we were counting on.”

But this fall, Van Wart said, gunmen had demanded $1,000 to allow Acazar’s guests to hunt the season. The hunters began noticing pickup trucks with men parked at the entrances to Méndez, as if watching who came and went. In early October, an Acazar hunting party was forced to a stop outside the village by an unidentified man with an assault rifle. The man angrily told them not to throw candy to the children in the street because it was dangerous.

The robbery took place a few weeks later.

The attack

That Sunday, the nine hunters had driven through Mexican army checkpoints on either end of Méndez about 4 p.m. on the way to the field. Split into two groups, they had been hunting about two hours and were getting ready to quit when the gunmen showed up near sunset. Some of the bandits wore what seemed like police uniforms, the hunters said, and carried military-style portable radios.

They gathered the entire hunting party, 20 all together, in a field: “I thought they were police officers at first,” said Rand, who was forced face down into the bed of a pickup truck, atop three Mexican lodge employees with a gunman’s foot on his neck.

What sounded like a shovel chinked into the earth nearby. He was certain, Rand said, that graves were being dug. Men were smacked with rifles or shovels.

“I already made up my mind that if they lined us up like a firing squad they were going to have to shoot me in the back, because I was running,” he said.

The man apparently in charge of the gunmen — who spoke English — told Rand to “relax, calm down. The next time you hunt, don’t hunt so close to town.”

After it was over, they were “whooping and hollering like an old Western,” Rand said. “It was like The Magnificent Seven.”

The hunters don’t plan to return to Mexico any time soon, if ever.

“Until these guys disappear permanently, it isn’t safe,” said Don Van Wart, 76, who acts as Rancho Acazar’s president. “There isn’t anything to stop this from happening again.”

HUNTING, SHARING THE HERITAGE

It was a frosty November morning when my Dad and I climbed into our deer stand for my first deer hunt. We got into the deer stand and checked our guns to make sure they were loaded, and we began to settle in. As the cold air sunk through our clothes, and the shivering began, we could hear the animals starting to wake up and move around. The wind started to blow through the trees. We could see the sun just starting to rise up over the edge of the mountain; sitting there and looking at that bright orange sunrise and my picturesque surroundings I started to think about the stories my Dad and brothers had told me about their past hunting trips. I began to think about the first time my Dad showed me how to shoot a gun while we were shooting skeet at my grandparents' house. I was so excited to learn, to be able to shoot guns with my family. I remembered the stories my Dad told me about how much fun he had when he and my grandfather had taken their dogs and gone bird hunting.

While I was reflecting on these memories, my Dad touched my arm and pointed out six or seven doe that we could see through the trees about forty yards away. We couldn't get a shot at them because the trees were too thick in that direction. I was so frustrated to have to watch them just walk away!

It was about 10:30 that morning before we saw anything else. I was sitting there contemplating the deer we had seen earlier when my Dad got my attention again. This time he pointed out a bobcat! As I watched where the bobcat stood about twenty yards away, I slowly moved over to the side of the stand so that I could get a good look at him through my scope. I fixed my cross hairs right between his eyes. I was so excited; he was the biggest cat I had ever seen! As I watched he tensed up and I could tell he had seen something. He began to crouch ready to jump at any moment. Then suddenly he just stood up and walked away.

It was an exciting day of hunting, and I loved being able to see all the wildlife and the beautiful sunrise, even though we didn't get anything that day. When we returned to the house that evening we found out how my brothers and sister did and we all began to talk about our experiences from the day. I will always remember that exciting hunting trip even though we didn't bring any deer or bobcat home. It is a story that I will share with my children as I take them hunting in the future. And they will be able to share their stories and the stories of their grandmother with their children as they take them hunting someday.

The alarm clock rings. It's 5:00 in the morning. I spring out of bed at once, for this is no ordinary day. It is opening day of deer season and I am going hunting with Dad for the first time. All my hunting clothes are laid out and ready to go beside Dad's clothes and his big gun. Dad has some snacks packed just for me; he says they help you sit still. As we head to the woods in the dark, Dad tells me of the big deer he has seen. "If we get lucky," he says, "we just might see the big eight point."

Believe it or not, we didn't get a deer that day, but the wisdom he imparted to me by my father has remained with me. That day, my Dad began to teach me character qualities that would influence me the rest of my life. He instilled in me the value of persistence, in that just because a situation might look impossible today does not mean it will be impossible tomorrow. I learned the power of flexibility when we had to change our approach from time to time in order to be successful. Above all, Dad taught me gratefulness to God by making sure I did not take any blessings for granted.

Through further instruction from my father, and other experienced woodsmen willing to share their wealth of hunting knowledge with me, I became increasingly more proficient in the art of hunting. I often find myself spending hours on end discussing animal habitat and hunting techniques with farmers, ranchers, and anyone else that shares my interest in hunting. I have been amazed to discover that as my knowledge of the sport increases, so does my level of enjoyment.

I find no matter how much I learn, there is always something more to discover. Alertness and creativity are paramount to stay ahead of the game and to be successful in the hunt. The unpredictability is what breeds the passion for the hunt. This is what drove my dad to take me, my brothers and sisters, and any of our friends who had no one to take them, to hunter safety courses three hours away. I am sure he got tired of hearing, "A safety is a mechanical device that can fail" over and over, but he never once complained, even though he had attended the class so many times.

Well, I finally did tag that big eight point, and every time I look at the rack, I think of all the positive investments made in my life while afield. I think of all the good times spent with family and friends, and the hunting stories swapped around the campfire. I remember the near misses and the times when it all seemed to work together flawlessly. Whatever the outcome, these are the times I would not trade for the world. This is my heritage – and what a privilege! It is now my privilege to share that heritage with others.

THE TREE OF HUNTING HERITAGE HAS MANY ROOTS

When thinking about the word heritage, people tend to imagine something being passed down generation to generation in their family. However, when it comes to hunting there are people other than my dad who have taken the time to share the love of hunting with me. There are several roots that make up my hunting heritage. These roots were started with the love of hunting that was instilled in my dad Ross and Roy Bartling, the time spent with me in the outdoors by my Grandpa Virgil Parks and the education in pheasant hunting from my Uncle Casey LaValley and Grandpa Gary LaValley. These people have been the reason why I enjoy hunting and plan on developing my own tree of hunting heritage.

While in college my dad, Jay LaValley, was invited to go deer hunting on the Bartling Ranch in Waurika, Oklahoma. He had never gone deer hunting. The first year he went he only took a camera to the tree stand. That morning he saw seven does and a young buck prancing and playing in a beautiful meadow next to a creek. After seeing the deer in action and his friend harvest a deer, he fell in love with deer hunting. Since that day, venison has been a staple in our family diet. Although the Bartlings are not family the roots of my hunting started on their ranch.

The youth deer hunt was my first experience in hunting. My grandpa, Virgil Parks, spent many hours teaching me to set up deer stands, put out feeders, and scout for deer. On that hunt, we were in the stand only thirty minutes when a buck walked out. It was early in the morning and the sun was gleaming across the pasture. My grandpa calmly whispered for me to be patient and take the best possible shot. I followed his instructions and properly killed the deer. This was just one of many outdoor experiences with my grandpa.

Pheasant hunting has become another passion of mine. My Uncle Casey LaValley and my Grandpa Gary LaValley have taken me hunting in the panhandle of Oklahoma. The excitement of walking slowly through dew covered fields of CRP and having a brilliantly colored rooster cackle and then lift up in the air is enough to take my breath away. Hunting with my grandpa and watching the pheasant in flight make it worth getting up at six in the morning.

These people have been great influences in my life. They have given me strong roots in the love of the outdoors, hunting, and providing food for my family. My hope is that my hunting heritage will grow and I may be able to pass this on to others, whether they are in my family or not. Someday I want to be a root in other hunting heritage trees.

When I was little my dad had hunted for years and I was never really interested. My dad was always trying to get me to go. He would ask me every time he went but, I was always saying no. Until about three years ago, he said you should come just to try it out and see if you like it. I agreed because I was getting sick of him always asking, and I thought it was worth a shot. Well I am so glad I did, it was tons of fun! My first time hunting was a really exciting time to my dad and I.

My dad had already had the tree stand setup so we didn't have to go and find a spot. It seemed like it took forever to get to our spot but, it was worth the wait! Once we arrived in the tree stand, it was already sunny. The weather was freezing though and I had layers and layers on. Outside was beautiful, the trees had all changed colors and the leaves were falling to the ground. The sun was shining so bright and there was not a cloud in the sky. It was great hunting weather! It was fun just setting out there and spending time with my dad. It was getting better as it got further through the day. It was a really wonderful time to me.

We had been out in the tree stand for about two hours and I hadn't shot at anything. I think it was because I was so nervous. My dad really wasn't shooting anything either he was helping me mostly. I had seen a small doe, but my dad say aim for it anyway.

Once my gun was up and I was aiming at the doe, it's like my body froze. I forgot what to do and I was so scared. I finally pulled the trigger and wasn't even close to the little doe. I was so embarrassed. My dad said that's okay there's plenty more deer out here you'll get one. So, we sat there for what seemed like forever when it was only an hour later before I saw another deer. This time I aimed and I missed again. I felt I was never going to get one. I kept trying though. A while later I saw a huge deer; well it really wasn't that big it seemed like it though. I aimed and shot, this time I actually shot it. It was one of the best moments in my life. I was so excited. My dad said lets go get him. We walked out to get him and he was actually really small, but I was still happy. It was my first deer I felt so awesome. We took pictures and all that other stuff and walked back to the truck. I didn't really like all the blood and nasty stuff so my dad did that. It was the best hunting trip ever.

I had a magnificent time with my dad the first time I went hunting. Ever since then it's a tradition to go every year. Many people go hunting with their dad in hunting season, but I doubt they have as much fun as me. I will always be excited to go hunting every year. I also think it makes my dad happy when I go with him. If you have never been I think should go at least once! I promise you won't regret it!

WHITETAIL BUCKS

Andy Cobb

I rough scored him at 148", and he had a 20 inch inside spread. He had a couple broken points and his mass didn't show well in the picture, but I am really pleased. I didn't weigh him, but he was probably 180 lbs? Not a big bodied deer.

LD Ferguson

I killed it 11-27-09 just after sun down. I was at my farm in Cleveland Co. The rest of the story is that I missed with the 1st shot and he just stood there. Didn't even look my way to see who was shooting at him. He was standing on my pond dam and I knocked him off with the second shot. I thought he was down for the count but I hit him low in the front shoulder and he took off when we approached the pond. I broke the other leg as he ran off and we ran him to ground in the pond spillway and finished him. He was a tuff ol bird and made 75 yards or so on just two legs.

Would have made a nice mount but three of the points are broken.

I was shooting my elk gun and was wanting to get used to a new scope that I put on it. It worked well!

TC encore 300WM. Cabela's 3X12 scope.

Had never seen this buck before and no game cam pics.

Sam Munhollon,

Woods Co. Deer-live weight 245 lbs. -field dressed 180 lbs. This heavy horned 8 point buck was chasing 4 does .

One bacterium kept at 98.6°, if left for 6 hours in an enclosed environment, can multiply into 131,072 bacteria. That's incredible! Yet people still continue to treat the animal like it's an old piece of luggage, throwing it in the back of the truck or on a trailer and leaving it exposed to the outside elements for hours, if not days.

The growth of bacteria at lower temperatures can be a good thing, it's called aging. Let me pose this question to each of you. Would you eat meat if it were hung in a cooler for 3 days at 35°? You bet! And it would be great. Now the same question, would you eat meat if it were hung outside in 60°, 70° or even 80° weather? Not a chance!

It's the hunter's responsibility to provide the best quality care for the animals they harvest each and every time. It makes no difference if you're 5 miles or 500 miles from home, that animal sacrificed its life for the table fare we crave each and every year. This should require us as hunters to make the commitment of taking every measure and precaution to prevent or at least reduce the chance of losing edible meat from unseen forces of nature.

In today's fast paced world, the processors don't have the time or the space to let your deer hang in order to age properly. They skin it, cool it down, process it, freeze it and get it out the door. It's all about them making money!

In this article, we have addressed the common problems we all face during hunting season. Heat, moisture, bacteria and flies! Now we want to introduce you to the solution.

Trophy Bag Cooler™ is a revolutionary new product with "PATENT PENDING" technology that is scientifically developed and hunter tested.

"THE WORLD'S FIRST AND ONLY YEAR ROUND PORTABLE ENVIRONMENT SUITABLE FOR HARVESTED GAME!" A MUST HAVE PRODUCT FOR EVERY HUNTER!

- Keeping your harvest cool and clean is paramount for preventing spoilage
- Uniquely designed short-term portable storage unit allows for a cleaner, neater transport of harvested game
- Thermal Radiant Barrier Energy Shield Technology along with anti-microbial properties
- Water resistant 600D polyester outer shell has the durability to last for years
- Dual purpose antler flaps and draw string leg holes with slide lock helps to eliminate flies

The Trophy Bag Cooler™ can maintain temperatures of 36° to 40° or even colder, we recommend using CoolerGel™ or with double-bagged ice. This helps keep moisture to a minimum and by reducing the temperature to below 40°; you can slow the growth of bacteria and preserve your harvest.

Remember:
Don't Spoil Your Hunt!
Keep It Cool™

Hunt: OUR ONLY HUNT FOR THE UNIQUE SPECIES OF THE EASTERN CAPE:
Nine days and ten nights for one hunter, all daily fees 1 X 1, plus shoulder mounts of three species. Additional hunters and/or observers are not required but are welcome at regular rates (2010 rates: $425/day 1 X 1 per hunter; est.
$200/day per observer).

Where: Hunt the foothills of the Winterberg Mountains, in the Eastern Cape of the Republic of South Africa

Number of Guests: 1 Hunter

Value: $5,500.00

Date(s) of Trip: To be set by mutual agreement 2010/2011

Description: The winning bidder will enjoy the special beauty and unique species of RSA's Eastern Cape. Mankazana Safaris, named for the Mankazana River which flows through this beautiful area of abundant wildlife, encompasses over 80,000 acres and offers over 30 species of game, some unique to the Eastern Cape.

The hunter will pay regular trophy fees, which are very reasonable and competitive. Species to be hunted include these which are unique to the area:

East Cape kudu
Cape bushbuck
Bontebuck
Black wildebeest
Vaal rhebok
Mountain reedbuck
Cape springbuck

Pickup from and return to the airport in Port Elizabeth is included, or guests may prefer to rent a vehicle and combine their visit to Mankazana with a tour of the Eastern Cape's beautiful ocean coastline. Sidetrips can be arranged for various activities, including a visit to famous Addo National Elephant Park, or for deep-sea fishing.

See Mankazana Safari's website for much additional information.

Taxidermy included in the package (two shoulder mounts up to Kudu-sized animals and one shoulder mount for a springbok-sized species), will be provided by Horne Taxidermy of Port Elizabeth.

SCI-OSC President and frequent African hunter, Mike Mistelske, will assist you in organizing all aspects of your trip. If you are a first-time African hunter, have no worries; Mike will help you with everything.

ADDITIONAL VALUE: Henry Durrheim of RiflePermits.com in Johannesburg will discount his normal $90/hunter fee to $50 for obtaining your RSA firearms license in advance of your arrival. Using such a service is highly recommended.

UNLIKE MANY OF THE HUNTS THAT ARE PROPOSED by African outfitters, where trophy fees are so high that even free daily rates aren't worth it, Mankazana's trophy fees are competitive, and the operation is a superior one.

The species and the location distinguish this hunt from all other African hunts offered at this fundraiser.

At Auction: Installed muzzle brake (rifle or muzzleloader)

Value: $200

With diminished recoil on all rifles, you can get a quick second shot because of the greatly reduced muzzle jump. Even shooting 150 grains of powder in a muzzle loaded gun will not rock your world! The vented smoke will not obscure the view of the target and the result of your shot, making it possible for a quick second shot if needed.

Other brakes are designed to vent gases rearward to aid recoil reduction. This naturally increases the decibels behind the firearm dramatically. The C & C Brake vents gases perpendicular to the barrel, which results in some increased decibels rearward, but most are directed horizontally with the smoke.

Rifle Brake A101-1

Rifle Brake our muzzle brake is unique, or even revolutionary. It has been designed flat, making possible its use on any iron-sighted gun. On muzzleloaders, it allows the placement of the ramrod in its cradle with no interference from the brake.

Black Powder Brake A101-3

Black Powder Brake Some brakes are designed to vent gasses rearward to aid in reducing recoil. This naturally increases the decibels behind the firearm drastically. The C&C brake vents gasses perpendicular to the barrel, which results in some increased DB's rearward, but most of the DB's are dispensed horizontally with the smoke. Includes the ramrod extension for cleaning and extension tube for loading the powder.

In South Dakota, mule deer is by drawing only; whitetail or pronghorn by drawing or left-over tags (a virtual certainty). John will assist with license applications, including option to try for larger mule deer in western SD. Hunters may enter drawing for preferred license and then, if unsuccessful in drawing, purchase left-over tags for alternate species/area. If you apply and are not successful the first year, you may apply again if you so choose; there is no expiration on this hunt.

Tags in Wyoming or Montana are harder to draw, but John will work with you if that's what you'd like to try for.

John Coulter will be your expert “escort” throughout this hunt. John will pick you up at Sioux Falls or Rapid City (depending on what/where you wish to hunt). John will provide ground transport until he returns you to the pickup point. If you hunt in western South Dakota, John, who is a retired teacher, will take you on a tour of area monuments like Mount Rushmore, Devil's Tower, the Crazy Horse Memorial--and of course historic Deadwood!

Again, this description deals primarily with South Dakota, but Wyoming and Montana are also possibilities; John will work with you.

Not included and must be covered by hunters: SD or other hunting licenses, travel to SD meeting point and return home, meals + lodging for hunters and escort, fuel for escort's vehicle throughout hunt, tips for escort. Meals and lodging in South Dakota are remarkably reasonable! Lodging is very modest: only about $25 per hunter based on two people sharing a motel room!

John, who is the longtime President of MN-WI FNAWS, is an avid hunter and a real people-person. John retired after 35 years of teaching and coaching at a public high school in southwestern Minnesota. John has been hunting in these areas for over 30 years and will share his knowledge of where to hunt, stay, eat and tour with you! John's goal is to teach you his secrets so well you will not need his help next time! He promises to make the trip a memorable one for the hunters who purchase this unique hunting opportunity!

If you go to John's website (www.huntbud.com), you will see that his hunters have taken some awesome antelope, including one that made Boone and Crockett by a full two inches!

If you are the successful bidder on this trip, John will discuss the option of adding some pheasant hunting to your trip to South Dakota:

John's son, Andy, has his own pheasant hunting business, and he offers premium private-land pheasant hunts. Please check this out at: www.discipleguideservice.com.

Framed Giclee Print: “DISTURBED MUD BATH”

Artist: Kobus Möller (2010 SCI Conservation Artist of the Year)

Value: $1,950

This is a Giclee print of the $45,000 original oil-on-canvas painted for the 2010 SCI international convention. The subject of this Giclee print is, of course, Africa's famed white rhinoceros.

Internationally acclaimed and the 2010 Conservation Artist of the Year, Kobus delights in roaming the bush, taking photos of the wildlife he loves so much. He is well-known for his affinity for moving in dangerously close to his subjects to capture the perfect shot. The encounter with this rhino was a memorable one. Kobus recounts, 'I had heard something big wallowing in a mud pool as I slowly approached over a small ridge. Directly in front of me, no more than thirty yards away, was an old rhino bull, wallowing in the stinking mud. I must have stepped on a twig, because he was on his feet in a flash and starting toward me.' Kobus froze and, due to the rhino's nearsightedness, remained undetected and was able to study him for a short while. Suddenly, the rhino wheeled around and charged off, snorting. The painting inspired by that brief confrontation captures the raw intensity of the moment perfectly.

The giclee size will be approximately 24" X 36". The outside frame dimensions will be approximately 36" X 48"

Description: Unfortunately for the farmers of Northwest Oklahoma, the hogs are here! This is great news for the off-season hunter. The State of Oklahoma does not recognize hogs as a game species, therefore we can hunt them year around with no bag limits.

Although our club members enjoy hog hunting on the entire ranch, we have set aside a very special area for hog hunting by non-club members as well. Our success rate is about 90% for all hunters. We can accommodate rifle, archery, blackpowder, and pistol hunters. Our average hog killed weights between 150 and 175lbs, but we routinely kill hogs over 300lbs. For some added excitement, ask about our hog hunts with hounds, it will cost you a little extra but it is absolutely some of the most exciting hunting you will do! For available hunting dates, please see our reservation calendar.

All accommodations are available on a fourteen-day advance reservation system. Although kitchen facilities are available, meals are not provided.

Description: The Rio Grande turkey population on the Chain Ranch is simply outstanding! Just ask Dick Kirby, owner of Quaker Boy Game Calls. Dick hunted the ranch in the spring a few years ago and was amazed at the number of turkeys he saw during the two day hunt.

Liberal bag limits in Oklahoma and Kansas allow each hunter to bag several toms during the spring season. The population of long beards on the ranch has never been better. We've harvested more than thirty toms in a single spring season.

P. Kelley Original Artwork from Leatherwood Arts

“In Your Face”

Something very special--another original only for our chapter!

AN ORIGINAL IN ARTIST OILS ON AUTHENTIC TURKEY TAIL FEATHERS

VALUE: $2,000

Double Matted and Framed in solid wood. Framed approx. 28” X 30”

NO IMAGE IS AVAILABLE, SINCE THIS IS A WORK IN PROGRESS; BUT NO DOUBT IT WILL BE BEAUTIFUL!

In the artist's own words...

“Wildlife feather art has long been the focal point of my artwork for many years. Beginning with the Bass Pro Outdoor World stores in 1995 my unique art of portraying wildlife on the unusual canvas of the authentic turkey feathers has also offered me the opportunity to acquaint myself with many interesting and dedicated wildlife conservation organizations....

By using the authentic turkey tail-feathers as the basis for the background of my wildlife renderings, I am not only taking reference from nature and the awesome wildlife there-in, but actually using a part of nature in the whole creative process.

My art has traveled far and wide, to now be found with the conservation organizations of The Mule Deer Foundation, Quail Unlimited, Safari Club International, Quality Deer Management Association 2009-10, Nite Lite Corp., Wall Street Creations, and other home-decor. retail outlets.”

"In Your Face" is just that, a huge bull elk, head thrown back, making that awesome bugle that we all seek to hear. This bull bust and rack would be a trophy and a delight for any elk enthusiast. Another original to grace your Oklahoma Station Chapter SCI annual banquet for 2010. The piece will measure approximately 28x30inches, be double matted to accent the art portrayed, and be framed in solid wood. Also to include the Oklahoma Station Chapter 2010 name plate. As with my previous paintings, this is sure to be a collector's piece and invoke interest from the hunter as well as wildlife and nature enthusiast at heart!

SEE OSC MEMBER ALLEN ENGLAND'S ARTICLE, PG. 25 OF THE AUGUST '08 ISSUE OF OKLAHOMA SAFARI TRAILS MAGAZINE!

Type of hunt: One hunter for 6 Days/7 Nights for black bear
Where: British Columbia, Chilcotin wilderness area
Date(s) of Trip: May 20-26 & May 27-June 3, 2010 only (no other dates or year)
Value: US $5,500

Description: Guided Black Bear Hunting in British Columbia, rifle or archery.
Hunt dates are when the bears are fresh from hibernation, and hides are excellent.

This area has a very high population of LARGE color phase black bears, because of excellent habitat and the fact that it is not over hunted. We mainly hunt them only two weeks in the Spring season when they are fresh out of hibernation and concentrated on feeding areas where they are relatively easy to find and stalk. The hides are excellent at that time, much better than coastal bears because of our colder temperatures. Success rates are very high during this time, averaging 170% for many years, because many hunters will shoot two bears. The hides range in size from 5 feet to 8 feet squared.

Our bear hunting camp is located on a remote lake 80 miles West of Prince George, where I pick you up for the drive to the camp. Prince George has daily commercial flights from Vancouver, and you may also drive to Prince George. The camp is located right in great bear hunting, with good feed close by. From our bear camp we drive old logging roads that lead through old logged areas that produce excellent feed for the bears. We are able to spot and stalk the bears without long hikes. Often we can glass them from a distance and judge their size. We pick up the hides at the camp soon after the kill and fly them to the freezer at the lodge, insuring no spoilage occurs. Rainbow trout are plentiful at the bear camp, also at the main lodge at Moose Lake, where you may stay and fish after you have shot your bears. The floatplane flight to the main lodge for fishing is included in the package price.

Your hunt is 1x1 guided and includes the kill fee for one bear. You may take a second bear, paying only the US$800 kill fee. Your hunt also includes the transportation from Prince George, and the delivery of your trophies to a local taxidermist. A second hunter may be added for US $5,500 1x1 guided, or the second hunter may share your guide for US $4,250. As with your hunt, the second person's hunt includes the air charter and the kill fee for one bear; and a second bear may be added for an additional US$800 kill fee.

Hunting license cost is $180 CAN. Each bear license costs $180 CAN. There is a Non-Resident Hunting Preservation Fee of $125 CAN. All fees are subject to a 5% tax. All guides in BC charge the NRHP fee, and all guides in Canada charge the 5% tax. These license costs, fees, and tax are in addition to the hunt prices but the outfitter will purchase the licenses for you in advance. Any required firearms permit fees, transportation from your origin to Prince George and return, and tips are costs in addition to the hunt fees.

If you've investigated Canadian bear hunts, you've probably found them ranging in price from $2,500 for the baited tree stand hunts to $9,000 for a 2-bear hunt on Vancouver Island. The Fawnie Mountain hunt is for the hunter that wants super guides, big bears, quality food and accommodations, many great memories, all at a reasonable price.

Your hosts, the Blackwells have owned and operated this business for 40 years. Some of the guides have been guiding here 16 years, some 12 years, etc. There is a sense of competition among the guides to find the biggest bears. The organization knows how to produce a quality hunting experience for trophy animals.

Suitable rifles are available if a hunter chooses not to bring his/her own. Archery is acceptable. Handguns are not permitted.

A non-hunting companion could stay at the lodge, with fishing and hiking as the activities; or may stay in the bear camp and accompany the hunter in the 4x4 and watching/filming the stalk. Fishing is also available at the camp. Cost for the non-hunter is US$1,500, including the pick up in Prince George and the float plane flight to the main lodge at Moose Lake.

REASONS TO CHOOSE THIS HUNT

1. Our enthusiastic and professional guides.
2. Our high success rate on big bears for many years.
3. Our great food, accommodations and equipment.
4. Our big, plentiful, color phase bears.
5. Our commitment to good service, with no more than 6 bear hunters in camp at one time.
